Biography:

Tomaž Vesel began his career in 1997 at the Government Centre for Informatics of the Republic of Slovenia and then continued between 1999 and 2004 as a member of the National Review Commission. At the end of 2003, he was elected First Deputy President of the Court of Auditors of the Republic of Slovenia and held this position until February 2013 when he was appointed Supreme State Auditor at the department responsible for auditing non-commercial public services. On 24 April 2013, he was elected by the National Assembly of the Republic of Slovenia as President of the Court of Auditors for a term of nine years.

Tomaž Vesel is the author of numerous professional articles and gives lectures in Slovenia and abroad. He played a significant role in establishing the auditing of public procurement and concessions and in implementing audits of institutions in Slovenia. He therefore has excellent knowledge of the fields of public procurement, concessions, disposal of tangible and financial assets of the public sector, state aid, European Union law and the working methods of supreme audit institutions.

He has also worked with international organisations, in particular as an external expert for the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) for the preparation of reports and implementation of external assistance in the countries of the former Yugoslavia in the fields of public finance and public procurement, concessions and public-private partnerships. He is also an active member of the International Organisation of Supreme Audit Organisations and the European Organisation of Supreme Audit Organisations.
